Aimee Cabo Nikolov starts her talk radio show “The Cure” on Radio The Biz 880AM, Miami, available online on 880thebiz.com

Aimee Cabo Nikolov wants to stand against domestic violence, child abuse, unnecessary custody battles and be there for people who have suffered that or are going through these things now.

Growing up, Nikolov was at the center of a high-profile court case which the media in Miami dubbed “The Case from Hell.” This case was about the long-term sexual abuse Nikolov endured as a child.

Nikolov states, “The suffering that I experienced has shaped the person that I have become.”

Of her journey, Nikolov comments, “I want people to know that if they let God into their life, they can begin to appreciate life more. There is hope. It’s not just suffering, and everything truly does pass.”

Unconditional love conquers all”

With her bachelors in science and nursing, Nikolov and her husband went on to found both a tight-knit family and a successful company together.

“I felt that I could help others by sharing my story,” adds Nikolov, who is now releasing a book about her life’s experiences. “I was praying and I knew it was time to write this book.”

“I look at my life, and in spite of the adversity that I have overcome, my life is a success because I am happy to go to work and I am happy to come home,” says Nikolov. “For me, prayer has been a source of strength and I now see that suffering is not necessarily a bad thing.”

Nikolov wants to share her bitter experience and offer help and advise to anybody who needs it. The talk show will accept callers phoning in. As it is available online anybody can call in.

Nikolov's newly released memoir offers an important message of hope and resilience for readers, recounting how she overcame great adversity to ultimately live a fulfilling life. "Love is the Answer, God is the Cure" is a presentation of her triumph.
