LAS VEGAS, NEVADA, UNITED STATES, September 26, 2018 / EINPresswire.com/ -- A stock market index futures contract, E-mini NASDAQ 100 Futures is among the best ways to get started with trading according to James Viscuglia II. CEO and founder of Cambridge Trading Academy, Viscuglia places E-mini NASDAQ 100 Futures above forex, oil, and even gold on one simple basis.

"Simple is better," suggests the Las Vegas-based serial entrepreneur. It's also the primary focus of his proprietary day trading software, something which is central to Cambridge Trading Academy.

Explaining in more detail for those unfamiliar with this form of trading, Viscuglia explains that Cambridge Trading Academy prefers E-mini NASDAQ 100 Futures because they're traded as future contracts, each with a tangible value. "Whether the market is way up," says the entrepreneur, "or way down, it doesn't matter with E-mini NASDAQ 100 Futures because the contract value remains unchanged."

With E-mini NASDAQ 100 Futures, Viscuglia reveals that each time a person enters the market, they're anticipating that it will be moving in one of two directions. "Either up or down," he points out. "If that person 'buys,' then they're forecasting that the market will move up, whereas if they 'sell,' they're forecasting that there will be a downturn in the market."

With this method, Viscuglia suggests that investors are able to turn a profit just by taking one direction or the other. "At Cambridge Trading Academy, we teach how it's possible to double the E-mini NASDAQ 100 Futures contract value each time the market moves up a price point, for example," he adds.

Employing Viscuglia's bespoke day trading software, Cambridge Trading Academy, according to the CEO, makes the process as simple as clicking a button. When the market is strong, a user clicks 'buy,' and when it's looking weak, the same user effectively shorts the market, instead clicking to 'sell.'

"It's as straightforward as that," explains Viscuglia. "If a Cambridge Trading Academy member opts to buy and the market moves up, they make a profit. What's more, if they hit sell and the market moves down, they make a profit too."

He is, however, keen to point out that turning a profit is dependent on making the correct predictions. "Knowing when to sell and when to buy is the most significant single determining factor in success with E-mini NASDAQ 100 Futures," says the serial entrepreneur.

To support an understanding in this area, Cambridge Trading Academy hosts a daily webinar. "The best thing to do is to join the daily webinar where people can watch the professionals trade in real time, seeing exactly how they do it," explains Viscuglia.

"Over the past three months," he adds, wrapping up, "we've seen huge trades between 7am-9am PST. As a result, Cambridge Trading Academy members have been able to make their money early in the morning, often within just an hour, then spend the rest of their day on the golf course, fishing, or doing whatever else it is that they love."
