Posture Media & Viener&Partners strategic alliance brings diversity & inclusion to the communications industry, organizations & brands.

NEW YORK CITY, NY, UNITED STATES, October 1, 2018 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Today, Posture Media and Viener&Partners announced their strategic alliance with the goal of bringing diversity and inclusion to the communications and media industries. This partnership will benefit organizations and brands that seek to infuse diversity in their culture and communications and invest in an inclusive future.

As the cultural landscape and social norms continue to shift at a fairly rapid pace, some organizations and brands are having challenges navigating their positioning, while maintaining their relevance. This combined offering provides a concept to creation to activation approach, that will allow us to develop and execute strategically sound and fully integrated work, from the inside out.

Posture Media, founded by Winter Mendelson, is a young creative agency and production studio born out of a publication that shines a light on underrepresented creatives. They acknowledge the pervasive issue that women, people of color and LGBTQ+ communities — who often drive culture, trends, and innovation — are not always given the opportunities and resources that it takes to succeed in the media and advertising worlds.

We are dedicated to sharing our talent and high level of awareness with companies who want to make an impact while investing in an inclusive future.”

Their philosophy is that creating memorable and disruptive work goes hand-in-hand with having a diverse creative team. It means better work and results for everyone. Posture is dedicated to sharing their talent and high level of awareness with companies who want to make an impact while investing in an inclusive future.

“As marketers, it is absolutely paramount that we focus on the culture that we are living in and through — and the people that make up that culture — as it's simply the heartbeat." said Hilarie Viener, Founder of Viener&Partners. "Winter has created a culturally diverse and inclusive platform, organically and authentically, bringing such a 'right-in-the-now' perspective that is as brilliant as it is fresh."

Viener&Partners comprises a team of global executives from the creative and branding industries with an established track record of working with over 100 brands in markets across the globe, from startups to Fortune 500s.

In describing this partnership, Mendelson explains, "We decided to work together because it allows us each to focus on our core strengths, while extending our overall capabilities. V&P specializes in branding, communications and marketing, and we are rooted in creative, production, and diversity consulting. When I first met with Hilarie, I knew she 'got it'. She has tremendous experience in the industry and is known for truly understanding development, culture, brand and communications. And as we each started our own companies, we share an entrepreneurial mindset that's both supportive and empowering."

Posture Media and Viener&Partners are independent, New York-based women and non-binary* founded and owned agencies.
