TORONTO, ONTARIO, CANADA, October 2, 2018 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Jatheon Technologies, the email archiving and eDiscovery company of choice for organizations in regulated industries, has just announced the launch of its next-generation cloud email archiving solution – Jatheon Cloud, which they will reveal publicly via a live broadcast on October 16th at 2 PM EST. The product demo will be presented by the company's CEO, Marko Dinic, and Jeff Marlow, VP Business Development.

After 15 years of experience with on-premise archiving solutions, the company created the new Jatheon Cloud with the same philosophy in mind – providing secure long-term email storage and easy retrieval for organizations that need to securely retain email and ensure easy access and searchability for reasons such as compliance requirements, legal discovery, storage management and business productivity and insight. With the new product, Jatheon can now address the lower end of the market and provide email archiving for startups and small-to-medium sized organizations that lack the IT infrastructure to support hardware solutions.

"The new cloud archiver meets and exceeds the highest standards of regulatory compliance and has the granularity necessary for the most demanding searches during eDiscovery. To make the email archiving experience easy for non-IT users, we've put in extra effort in the design of the user interface. I am convinced that people will be impressed after they've seen what it looks like and what it can do, so I'd like to use this opportunity to invite compliance officers, IT departments and everyone else interested in email archiving to join us on October 16th", says Marko Dinic, CEO.

"Jatheon Cloud enables small and medium-size businesses to execute complex email searches through millions of emails with a simple, easy to use interface, making eDiscovery a fast and efficient process. With this product priced very competitively against other leading archiving providers, we believe that it will be a complete success", adds Jeff Marlow.
