

DISCOVER THE KEYS TO PETER STERLING'S MAGIC KINGDOM

The award-winning artist's sixteenth album is uplifting and effervescent, capturing energy released during the 2017 total solar eclipse, recorded in Sedona AZ.

SEDONA, AZ, USA, October 5, 2018 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Everyone needs a little magic in their lives, and harpist Peter Sterling's Magic Kingdom has arrived just in time for holiday gifting to listeners of all ages. Initiated as an album for his young son, Sterling recognized the music's appeal to instrumental music lovers of all ages and released it widely this week. It is his sixteenth album, available now on quality music streaming and sales sites in both physical and digital formats; explore more information, videos and sales links at Sterling's official website www.harpmagic.com

Magic Kingdom's mystical and playful melodies evolved over a period of a year in Sedona, AZ. Sterling plays keyboards, harp, recorder, Freenote chimes, Peruvian wooden flute and percussion, while Richard Hardy performs poignantly on Irish penny whistle and soprano sax, joined by Anthony Mazzella adding a guitar groove. The thematic album is a journey of sorts, full of sonic rewards with a slightly Celtic lilt. Sterling -- a successful DIY composer, harpist, and entrepreneur -- both produces and markets the album via his indie record label, Harpmagic Music.

Bill Binkelman, Retailing Insight

Reflecting on the genesis of the thematic album, Sterling shares, “I was inspired by the energy of the 2017 total solar eclipse, and ‘Magic Kingdom’ came thru in a flash of light as I sat at my Korg keyboard and endeavored to express the potent energy of the sun into music. Initially, I thought this was music for kids--specifically my son--but as time went on the music evolved into an emotionally resonant journey through the sun, into a stunningly beautiful magical kingdom, somewhat heavenly.”

The album has been called uplifting, and incorporates both electro-acoustic and nature sounds, light vocalizations and a mystical groove along the lines of new age and electronic fusion groups like Enigma, B-Tribe, Adiemus and Andreas Vollenweider. The listener sits back and follows the album's sonic sunshine through awakenings, joy, dreams, ascension and entry into the Magic

Magic Kingdom, the high-spirited new release by harpist Peter Sterling.

Kingdom; this music is perfect for relaxation, meditation and visualization at its best.

Music industry veteran, Bill Binkelman of Retailing Insight magazine, writes "Peter Sterling never ceases to surprise and delight me. With each new release, his reservoir of talent seems to grow ever deeper and wider. Magic Kingdom showcases him in the embrace of energy and light, but also cheerful whimsy and a gentle playfulness. Chalk up another successful album from this masterful harpist and multi-instrumentalist."
