IRVINE, CALIFORNIA, UNITED STATES, October 18, 2018 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Thursday, October 18 at 6pm: win prizes at Scuba.com's costume contest and hear amazing tales from a Public Safety Diver for the LAPD's Underwater Dive unit.

The team does search and recovery, but also other underwater duties. In their work, they have been experts for other agencies, jumped from helicopters, and even dove in the La Brea Tar Pits.

They have been invited to speak internationally, and now you can hear from one of their most veteran members. He is the Equipment Logistics Officer for the unit, and has been diving for LAPD for over 25 years. Before he joined, public safety divers were just auxiliary positions, but he was the first to be hired as a full time employee of the team.

Beyond his work for LAPD, he is an avid recreational diver and certified PADI instructor. He is also a boat captain and instructs Advanced Boat Handling and Maritime Operations courses.

We also will have another guest speaker, Great White Shark attack survivor, Maria Korcsmaros. She will be talking about her life changing story and how she is now an active shark advocate. Join her fight for shark protection, at <http://run4sharks.org>

So join us at <http://Scuba.com> from 6pm to 8pm to hear their terrifying and amazing stories, and come in costume for a chance to win prizes in our costume contest.
