Palo Alto, CA – November 14, 2018 – The Radicati Group’s latest study, “Cloud Access Security Broker (CASB) Market, 2018-2022” offers an in-depth analysis of the market for CASB solutions. CASB solutions serve to monitor activity and enforce security policies between cloud users and cloud applications. CASB solutions give organizations visibility into authorized and non-authorized (i.e. Shadow IT) cloud applications, in order to monitor user activity, warn administrators about hazardous actions, enforce security compliance policies, and prevent malware.

The study provides market size, installed base and revenue market share by vendor, four-year forecasts, breakouts by region and business size for the CASB market. It also provides a detailed analysis of key market players, including Bitglass, CipherCloud, Cisco, Forcepoint, McAfee, Microsoft, Netskope, Palo Alto Networks, Proofpoint, and Symantec.

According to the study, the worldwide revenue for CASB solutions is expected to grow from over $400 million in 2018, to over $1.0 billion by 2022.
