The series of spots feature the best-selling Baristas White Coffee which is available in single-serve pods compatible with the Keurig 2.0 brewing system as well as bags of ground white coffee. Consumers are invited to try white coffee by going to www.trywhitecoffee.com where Amazon will ship two boxes to their home or business free of charge, fulfilled by Amazon.

White coffee brings a whole new flavor to your morning, the lighter roast brings a tea-like properties, with almost 3 times the caffeine. It was fun shooting this new series of commercials.”

White Coffee is a rarity and is developed using a slow and low heat roast that preserves a much higher caffeine level than a traditional roast. Because the beans have been under-roasted, white coffee has a lighter taste than traditional coffee and is described as both neutral and nutty.

Front Montgomery stated: “White coffee brings a whole new flavor to your morning, the lighter roast brings a tea-like properties, with almost 3 times the caffeine. It was fun shooting this new series of commercials and promotions. I think the NFL is the perfect place for fans to see them first especially since the Seahawks are playing.”

Baristas has also created a new line of infused coffee called Baristas “EnrichaRoast” that promotes healthy living. The infused product line is based on coffee, the world’s most popular beverage. It offers consumers the ability to enhance their daily coffee consumption with vitamins, minerals, nutraceuticals, and other additives legal in the states which the products are available.

The new blends are infused with substances that promote weight loss, vitality, sensuality, and recovery from hangovers as well as potentially other health benefits. Some other potential benefits may or may not include the slowing of cancer cells, prevention of Alzheimer’s, treatment of Glaucoma, relief from Arthritis, decreased Anxiety, and reportedly other healthy effects.
