

4th Annual Sight, Sound & Story: The Art of Cinematography Symposium Returns to NYC

An Evening Featuring In-Depth Conversations with Master Filmmakers Set for December 5th

NEW YORK, NY, UNITED STATES, November 19, 2018 / EINPresswire.com/ -- Manhattan Edit Workshop, the east coast leader in education for content creators, announces the return of "Sight, Sound & Story: The Art of Cinematography" on December 5th at the NYIT Auditorium Theater on Broadway. This year's event showcases some of the industry's leading cinematographers behind worldwide hit TV shows including "Game of Thrones," "Ray Donovan," and "Westworld"; pioneers of cinematic production on classics such as "Star Wars – Episode IV: A New Hope," "Tron," and "2001: A Space Odyssey"; and cinematographers that shot award-winning documentaries "Strong Island," "Finding 52," "Mad Hot Ballroom," and "RBG." Additionally, attendees will have the opportunity to speak directly with top gear companies including ZEISS, Adorama, Shutterstock, Padcaster, and other partners at our Networking Party & Tech Lounge, sponsored by ZEISS. Executive Producer Jason Banke comments, "Each year we strive to bring the most talented and innovative artists to the New York community of filmmakers and DP's. We are incredibly excited to host these conversations with such an amazing group of cinematographers." Banke adds, "We wouldn't be able to throw this year-end educational event without the support of our generous partners."
