The players were invited to visit Gerald Peters in the Staten Island Mall this past September to be sized. The rings were then designed and placed into production which took several weeks. Each is decorated with the players last name and was fashioned in the likeness of Major League Baseball's World Series Ring. Gerald Peters Jewelers also gave rings to the team's coaches.

"Jerry reached out to me and was so impressed by the kids and how they played that he wanted to make them rings to

are excited to receive them, and it's something they will have for the rest of their lives, and for that we are truly honored that Gerald and his sons are here tonight to give them out."
