Launching Super Bowl Weekend in Atlanta - January 29th through February 3rd, 2019, our goal is to not only entertain, but also explicitly activate, the world in support of the UN’s 17 Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs) – and to bring together the world in celebration of the power of sports, entertainment and service to accelerate a positive future for humanity and our children’s tomorrow.

We wish to honor and accelerate the amazing and powerful contributions of our sports, celebrity, corporate, NGO and individual citizens who are also typically unsung world leaders in using their branding and power to help their fellow humans.

Ambassador Andrew Young notes that “Sports has the power to unify us in the world. This initiative’s effort to make this a reality through the SDG Platform is indeed a good thing.”

What can you expect from this year’s Global Game Village?

The Global Game Village, a World’s Fair for SDG-powered Sustainability, will feature a number of already committed major musical acts being announced in early December; the second “SDG Achievement Awards,” first given at the United Nations during the 73rd U.N. General Assembly, September 24, 2018; a drum circle for our future featuring youth and celebrity drummers from across the planet; a Global Game Village demonstration of HOPSports’ youth fitness, wellness and SDG Leadership programs being offered to every K-12 child in Atlanta plus 10 schools in Africa; and other Super Bowl-inspired events, announcements and activities.

Atlanta’s Super Bowl will feature the world’s first “pop-up” Global Game Village / SDG Festival

The Global Game Village will not only bridge the gap between locals, Super Bowl fans and tourists as a unified community, but will also fuse together caring celebrities, brands, communities, NGOs, the greater football-loving community and diplomats, such as the Mayor of Atlanta, Keisha Lance Bottoms; P Amir Dossal, founder of the Global Partnerships Forum, UN Fund and Foundation, and former Executive Director at UNOP; and former two-time Mayor of Atlanta, United States Ambassador to the United Nations, and Mayoral Host of the 1996 Atlanta Games, Andrew Young, one of fathers of the Global Game Village. Designed as an ongoing endeavor delivering a positive impact for all of 2019, it is the perfect platform for building relationships using viral, word-of-mouth, experiential and mass media marketing, now and for years to come.

“We welcome our extended Atlanta and Unify Earth families to join us at this ground-breaking first-time event,” says Unify Earth CEO Ro Rinaldi.
