

Vyana Reynolds of Diving into the Divine Feminine to be Featured on CUTV News Radio

KEALAKEKUA, HAWAII, UNITED STATES, November 27, 2018 /

EINPresswire.com/ -- We invest time and money to get the right education, to get the right job or start our own business and achieve our dreams. Then one day, we wake up and realize we still feel trapped and unfulfilled.

The story of Vyana Reynolds is a story of transformation. Once listed in Forbes magazine as a leading attorney in California, Vyana, then known as Heather, ran her own law firm for 20 years.

"It's easy to lose ourselves in the corporate America game, which is what I did, but it felt like a golden cage," recalls Vyana. "I did everything I thought I was supposed to do to be successful and achieve the American Dream, but it was always about what other people thought was success. It wasn't until I got to the top of the game that I realized that wasn't my game at all and that I had just been buying into somebody else's dream. I had to completely start over. I've always been looking for more freedom and more fulfillment. Hawaii was a good place to start."

Vyana traded in her corporate wardrobe, moved to Hawaii, "got her tail on" and can now be found swimming in the bays of Kona, Hawaii with the dolphins while donning a mermaid tail. That's right! Vyana Reynolds is a professional "mermaid" and the founder of Diving into the Divine Feminine and the Mermaid Dreams Bed and Breakfast and retreat center on Hawaii's Big Island.

"I am more real as a mermaid than I ever was as a lawyer," says Vyana. "I'm much more comfortable in a mermaid tail under the ocean than I am on land in a suit in a courtroom. It's more authentic for me to express myself in a feminine way. If I can leap from lawyer to mermaid, anything is possible. That's really the message."

We all have these things that call us; the heart's desire that maybe we haven't given ourselves permission to enjoy. Vyana now inspires women who want to experience transformation; make a big change in their life; take a leap and Dive into Their Divine Feminine.

"All of a sudden we're making a huge difference in the world because we are stepping into our goddess shoes or mermaid tail. This is possible for all of us," says Vyana. "More and more women are wanting freedom and to remember who they are. We know very little about ourselves, both physically and spiritually, because we just don't often dive in.

"Swimming in the ocean among the gorgeous coral reefs, dancing with the dolphins, and holding sea weed for the turtles to snack on is pure magic and total wonder and awe. There's a whole universe down there that really is exciting to explore," says Vyana, "and diving into it becomes a metaphor for our self both physically and metaphorically."

CUTV News Radio will feature Vyana Reynolds in an interview with Jim Masters on November 29th at 4pm EST.
