/EINPresswire.com/ -- ChineseABC, a 5-star-rated language-learning app available for iOS devices and featuring a complete, detailed explained Pinyin section to help beginners overcome pronunciation difficulties with Mandarin Chinese.

"We designed an App that would help anyone interested in learning Mandarin Chinese to quickly get a firm grounding and feel comfortable communicating with native Chinese speakers," explained Dr. Allie Xie, co-founder and course designer. Ms. Xie is also a Teaching Chinese as a Foreign Language Ph.D. holder. "We developed our comprehensive Pinyin section, for that purpose. We also utilize contextualized videos to really engage users and help them build familiarity not only with word sounds but also with Chinese language symbols."

ChineseABC incorporates quite a few interesting innovations. It includes the Scientific Forgetting Curve to help ensure better memorization and accuracy. In addition, users are able to create custom learning plans unique to their needs, level of Chinese fluency, and learning pace. This creates a step-by-step process that takes beginners from knowing no Chinese to complete fluency simply and easily.

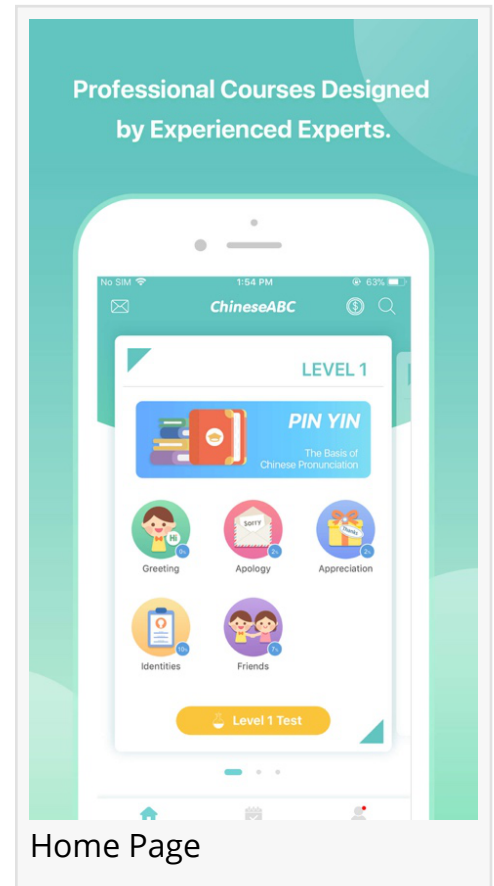

The app's design team recently added an additional interactive element to help further increase user engagement. All users can now leave comments and suggestions, or as questions, right under the video playing. All posts are answered by native Chinese speakers, further exposing users to the Chinese language, but also providing them with a role in helping to develop future functionality and features within the app.

Users can download the app from the Apple App Store for free. To learn more about ChineseABC, Dr. Xie, or the app's development team, visit <https://www.ChineseABC.net>.

About ChineseABC: ChineseABC is a powerful, flexible new language-learning app developed by Dr. Allie Xie to help beginners learn and master Chinese. Dr. Xie holds a Ph.D. in Linguistics and Applied Linguistics and has taught Chinese as a second language for ten years.
