IMN will also host the Inaugural Multifamily Property Management & Operations Conference which will follow the Dallas event on March 21-22, and the RealTECH conference, June 12-13 in New York City. These offshoots will explore the future of residential real estate through the lens of property managers and owners, and the transformational impact that real estate technology is having on the occupant experience.

Each edition of IMN's Middle-Market Multifamily franchise attracts an average of over 500 registrants – over 60% of which are categorized as small and mid-sized multifamily owners – and between 30-40 sponsors/exhibitors, ensuring delegates have ample opportunity for networking and business development.

The series' agendas dive deep into all of the issues, opportunities, strategies and trends impacting small and mid-sized multifamily owners, with hallmark discussions on Value-Add Strategies, Working with Institutional Capital and the famed Acquisitions Shark Tank. Led by distinguished industry experts, these discussions provide attendees with the knowledge and resources required to make well-informed business decisions.
