

PDL Releases Updated Information On Fees

Established private investigation company PDL has announced the launch of its updated, transparent fees system and calculation method

LONDON, UK, November 29, 2018 /EINPresswire.com/ -- PDL has released information on its private investigation fees, containing details on the fee calculation process, quoting timeline and assurances to its clients.

PDL provides a comprehensive range of specialised investigative services and as such requires a fee system that is detailed, adaptable and fully transparent.

Clients are offered a free appraisal, in which time PDL's expert investigative consultants will ask for all the information they need to consider the case.

They'll then calculate the fees with professionalism, efficiency and accuracy. The quote is tendered 24 hours later and left with the client to consider in a pressure-free environment.

We're committed to calculating our fees with the transparency and ethical code for which we've become well-known in the industry"

Peter Torley

PDL states that while every case is unique, and the success of its outcome relies on a bespoke approach, they can provide the assurance from the outset that their fee will comprise an hourly rate plus associated technical and/or intelligence costs.

Peter Torley, PDL's owner and lead investigation consultant said "We're committed to calculating our fees with the transparency and ethical code for which we've become well-known in the industry.

We pride ourselves on ensuring we fully understand our clients' needs, before providing an accurate, detailed quote within 24 hours. This approach has created many long-term, successful working relationships with both individuals and corporate clients."
