Garrett Yrigoyen Bio: California native, Garrett Yrigoyen, discovered his love for the great outdoors as a young boy when his parents would take his family on camping trips in the nearby Sierra Nevada mountains. It was there, at the age of 4, where his addiction to reel-in fish began. A handful of years later, Garrett began hunting dove and pheasant in the very fields that his father farmed. For a number of years education and sports took precedence over the opportunity to hunt and fish. In 2007 he was the male senior all-around athlete for Sierra High School in Manteca, CA. In junior college, he started at third base for the San Joaquin Delta College Mustangs baseball team who placed second at the California state championship. He then moved on to the University of Nevada Reno where he obtained a degree while starting each year at third base for the Wolfpack baseball team. While living in Nevada, he developed a passion for hunting chukar high up in the mountains and fly fishing on local rivers, streams, and lakes chasing rainbow, brown, golden and Lahontan cutthroat trout. He was the last man standing on Season 14 of ABC's the Bachelorette with Becca Kufrin and is now pursuing his passion for fishing and hunting with us at Gage Outdoor.
