TULSA, OK, UNITED STATES, December 19, 2018 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Clay Clark, founder of Thrive15 and creator of the "Thrivetime Show - Business School Without the BS," recently celebrated the two-year anniversary of his podcast November 5th, 2018 with over half a million monthly downloads.

The Thrivetime Show allows viewers to "Experience business school without the BS" with Clark and his co-host: optometrist turned business tycoon Doctor Robert Zoellner. The award-winning team has been featured on Forbes, Fast Company, Bloomberg, and Pando Daily. Currently, the podcast has over 1,300 episodes, and has featured Emmy Award-Winners, New York Times best-selling authors, NFL Players, and NBA Players.

The team's latest achievement? Seeing a packed audience at the annual Thrivetime Show Conference in Jenks, Oklahoma. The Thrivetime Show 2-day, 15-hour business conference at the 20,000 square foot Thrivetime Show world headquarters had one of its most enthusiastic receptions this year. The conference was held on December 7th and 8th, and attending guests were able to learn proven strategies that Doctor Zoellner and Clay Clark have used to start and grow 13 multi-million-dollar businesses.

"Our business conference is the highest and most reviewed business conference in the world," explains Clay Clark, "because we focus 100% of the conference on implementation. Our conference is business school without the B.S. We focus on results, not feelings. There is zero up-selling, and we teach practical action steps business owners can use immediately to start or grow a business."

Many special guests attended the event, including Michael Levine, the New York Times bestselling author and public relations consultant of choice for Nike, Prince, Pizza Hut, Prince, Michael Jackson, President Clinton, President Bush, and Charlton Heston, among many others. Another guest of honor was Ken Schmidt, the former director of communications who famously led the Harley-Davidson Motor Company turn-around from 1985 to 1997.

A man of many talents, Clark has been called the "Jim Carey of Entrepreneurship." He was "Metro Chamber of Commerce Entrepreneur of the Year” at the age of 20 and the “U.S. Chamber National Blue Ribbon Quality Award Winner” at the age of 27. As the result of his endless work ethic, he’s been able to found and co-found several companies including: DJ Connection, Elephant in the Room Men’s Grooming Lounge, and Thrive15.com.

Clark, who over the years has also worked as a business growth consultant, educator, and entertainer of choice for countless clients, continues to teach others when he can. “This is a way we can do it — on the web,” states Clark, “our mission is to help people thrive and live at their peak.”

Andy M., a podcast listener on Stitcher, praises, “It’s a fantastic radio show. Clay and Dr. Zoellner have owned and worked with so many companies. The experience combined with their continual relentless humor makes the show very hard to not listen to everyday. I love it.”
