

Family Doctor Matthew Bogard publishes article on maintaining a healthy weight

Maintaining a healthy weight is an issue that confronts most Americans today. Dr. Matthew Bogard published an informational article that provides an overview.

CHARITON, IOWA, UNITED STATES, December 27, 2018 /

EINPresswire.com/ -- Trying to lose or gain weight via unhealthy practices is not uncommon. Both men and women alike will resort to meal skipping, fasting, and smoking to reduce appetite and consuming stimulants such as caffeine, prescription drugs and energy drinks to replace actual food. Other more damaging methods include taking diet pills, laxatives, diuretics or purging. Unhealthy dietary practices cause weight regain after a period of time. People who indulge in these will also show signs of depression or develop eating disorders. The newest overview provided by Matthew Bogard, MD is available on his blog at <https://matthewbogardmd.blogspot.com/>

“

In case you are planning to start a more vigorous exercise program, then do consult a doctor, especially if you bear health concerns like shortness of breath, dizziness, chest pain or pressure ...”

Matthew Bogard, MD in Iowa & Nebraska

underweight. Being overweight or obese puts you at a higher risk of developing serious health problems such as heart diseases, high blood pressure, type II diabetes, gallstones, breathing problems and even certain cancers.

Being underweight as well comes with its own set of problems. These include anemia, osteoporosis, decreased immune function, fertility issues and growth and development issues in children and teenagers. If you are underweight, then you are more like to suffer from complications from surgery as well.

Balancing Energy

The key to maintaining a healthy weight is balancing the amount of energy you consume and the amount you of energy you spend carrying out daily tasks. If your calorie intake is the same as the

Matthew Bogard, MD

Dr. Matthew Bogard practices emergency medicine primarily at the Lucas County Health Center in Chariton, Iowa. Presently, he is Board Certified in Family Medicine by the National Board of Physicians and Surgeons and the American Academy of Family Physicians.

Friday, November 30, 2018

Dr. Matthew Bogard: All you need to know about hypertension - causes, symptoms, and treatments

Matthew Bogard
Matthew Bogard, ER Physician in Iowa and Nebraska
Chariton, Iowa

All Staffing, Inc.
University of Nebraska at Omaha
See contact info

About Me

Matthew Bogard, MD

Dr. Matthew Bogard grew up near Omaha, Nebraska and attended Creighton University where he studied Health Administration and Biology. He attended medical school at the University of Nebraska – College of Medicine and was selected to join the Advanced Rural Training Program, a four-year residency program at the University of Nebraska Medical Center that trains physicians to provide comprehensive full-spectrum medical care. During residency, Dr. Bogard served on the Board of Directors of the number of calories spent, then there is a balance of energy and your weight will stay the same.

Blog of Dr Matt Bogard Iowa

If your calorie intake surpasses the amount of calories you spend, the result is weight gain. If the opposite happens, the result is weight loss.

Managing Healthy Weight Loss

Some key takeaways for managing a healthy weight loss include:

- * Exercise. Indulging in physical activity on a regular basis will help burn the extra calories you consume. It also builds muscle, which is equally healthy. Walking instead of using the car or public transport wherever possible and cycling to work or school are great ways to increase your daily level of activity. If you want to burn more calories, you can also join a gym and workout. This will help build your muscles. More muscle mass means more calories get burnt even when you are not exercising.

- * Spend less time in front of screens. People who watch a lot of television, play video games or spend an excessive amount of time on their phones, tablets, or computers are more likely to be overweight. Use this time more constructively and get an adequate amount of sleep as well.

- * Don't skip breakfast. A lot of people have a habit of skipping breakfast in the morning. This is detrimental to your health as breakfast gets your metabolism going and burns calories to give you the energy you need. People who skip breakfast are likely to feel hungrier later. They end up consuming a larger portion of calories than they originally would have if they had breakfast.

- * Eat more fruits and vegetables. These contain fiber and will serve to be more fulfilling by decreasing your desire to overeat.

- * Avoid sugary drinks such as juice drinks, energy drinks and sodas. They are empty calories that only add to your obesity. Go for water or low-fat milk instead.

In case you are planning to start a more vigorous exercise program, then do consult a doctor, especially if you bear health concerns like shortness of breath, dizziness, chest pain or pressure, an irregular heartbeat, blood clots, hernia, or joint swelling

Matthew Bogard MD Family Medicine

Dr Matthew Bogard NE and IA

Managing Healthy Weight Gain

Being underweight can be attributed to several causes. Besides serious illnesses that may result in weight loss, being underweight is also a result of medication that suppresses your appetite, excessive exercise, excessive stress, and enzyme deficiencies.

If you are underweight, then you should try to gain weight gradually until you reach a healthy weight. Some key takeaways in managing a healthy weight gain include:

- * Eat healthy. If you're trying to gain weight, then eat foods that are high in energy content. Start with a good breakfast. Consider having porridge made with full-fat milk and chopped fruits or raisins to give your day a healthy boost. Eggs on toast are also a good option. For snacks, milkshakes are an ideal choice. You can also add milk powder to them for extra protein.
- * Include more fruits and vegetables in your diet. Like with weight loss, you should have at least 5 portions of fruits and vegetables every day.
- * Increase your protein intake. Have beans, pulses, fish, eggs and meat.
- * Drink plenty of water but avoid fluids just before meals in case you feel too full to eat later.
- * Have more dairy products. If you're a vegan or vegetarian, then dairy alternatives such as soya drinks and yogurts also work.
- * Avoid foods that are full of saturated fat and sugar such as chocolate, cakes and sugary beverages. These may be high in calories but result in unhealthy weight gain by increasing body fat instead of lean body mass. They also increase the risk of developing high levels of cholesterol in your blood.
- * You can also get more calories in your meals by topping them with cheese, nuts and seeds.
- * Exercise. This strenuous activity will not only increase muscle mass and add weight to your body but will also increase your appetite and calorie intake.

If you are unable to gain weight, then it is advisable to consult a doctor for a medical checkup and ensure there is no serious underlying medical cause. The doctor may test you for Diabetes mellitus, HIV/AIDS, enzyme deficiencies, Tuberculosis, malignancies, an overactive thyroid gland, cystic fibrosis or any other physical condition that could be hampering weight gain.

The complete article is available on the blog of Dr. Bogard at <https://matthewbogardmd.blogspot.com/>

Dr. Matthew Bogard, Iowa Doctor

Matthew Bogard, MD grew up near Omaha, Nebraska. During his time at Nebraska College of Medicine, he was selected to join the Advanced Rural Training Program, a four-year residency program that trains physicians to provide comprehensive full-spectrum medical care. During his residency, Dr. Bogard served on the Board of Directors of the Nebraska Academy of Family Physicians, was active with the Nebraska Medical Association, mentored multiple medical students and was honored by the Nebraska Legislature as "Family Physician of the Day." Dr. Bogard primarily practices Emergency Medicine.

Dr Matthew Bogard

Doctor Matthew Bogard MD Family Medicine

References:

Blog: <https://matthewbogardmd.blogspot.com/>

News: <https://medicogazette.com/dr-matthew-bogard%2C-iowa>

News: <https://hippocratesguild.com/dr-matthew-bogard>

News: <https://hype.news/dr-matthew-bogard/>

News: <https://attorneygazette.com/matthew-bogard%2C-md#7244cab0-d3fa-44b9-8632-6f83b0524da4>

LinkedIn Profile: <https://www.linkedin.com/in/matthewbogard/>

Matthew Bogard, MD

Matthew Bogard, MD

+1 641-774-3000

email us here

Visit us on social media:

LinkedIn

---

This press release can be viewed online at: <http://www.einpresswire.com>

Disclaimer: If you have any questions regarding information in this press release please contact the company listed in the press release. Please do not contact EIN Presswire. We will be unable to assist you with your inquiry. EIN Presswire disclaims any content contained in these releases. © 1995-2018 IPD Group, Inc. All Right Reserved.