

Chitkara University Incubated Farm Engineering Startup Wins Ingenuity-18 Challenge at University of Nottingham in China

WASHINGTON, NEW MEXICO, UNITED STATES, December 21, 2018 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Chandigarh, 21st December 2018 – Chitkara University congratulates its incubated Farm Engineering Start-up 'MOKSH' for winning gold at Ingenuity-2018 Innovation Challenge at University of Nottingham, Ningbo, China. Chitkara University in association with Chandigarh Region Innovation and Knowledge Cluster (CRIKC) has led 4 start-ups from India to the Global Innovation Ingenuity 2018 Challenge.

Ingenuity-18 is University of Nottingham's annual, tri-campus entrepreneurship competition.

Ingenuity 2018 is a journey of exploration, a re-engagement around the problems facing contemporary society, and a chance to discover innovative solutions to how we address them. They are looking to discover and develop the next generation of innovators in the UK, Malaysia, India and China, to equip them to go out into the world and lead change.

A total of 17 teams from three nations UK, China and India, presented their business ideas, and a total of 10 top teams including 'MOKSH', got an Exclusive International Pass for having swift business establishments with the local government support in China and in the UK. The winning pitch from MOKSH was delivered by its Founder Dr. Nitin Saluja, an entrepreneur from the Chitkara Innovation Incubator located at Chandigarh. This is a milestone for CRIKC (Chandigarh Region Innovation & Knowledge Cluster) & Chitkara University's start-ups. The total of 6 top winning companies will co-found in India, China and the UK.

Indian farm engineering start-up from Chitkara University, Chandigarh, 'MOKSH' won (score 75.96%) the top 1st spot and bagged a prize money of 200 thousand RMB (Yuan)/20 Lakhs INR in a nail-biting global innovation challenge. They emerged winners from 17 global teams from China, UK and India. Their winning USP was the global importance of the innovative idea that simplifies the life of a farmer's post-harvest and yet helps them earn more from the crop waste.

Chitkara University's DAT, a company into braille education and social space for making education for the blind globally easy, was declared as the 'Best International Project' at the event. They won (10,000 UK pounds) by Hayden Green Foundation UK. The Award was given by its trustee Prof. Hardev Singh from HGF. E-Braille Slate is a project devised by DAT for making education for the blind painless and comfortable. The project, under the supervision of CURIN (Chitkara University Centre for Research and Innovation), has a high international relevance as it addresses millions of people with the deficiency. This project was especially applauded by the Jury and the audience.

Speaking on the occasion, Dr. Madhu Chitkara, Vice Chancellor of Chitkara University, said, "On behalf of Chitkara University, I would like to extend my hearty congratulations to our innovation focused start-ups for having achieved laurels on a global scale. We are delighted to see that our research and innovation focus is now yielding results on a global platform. Through Chitkara University Research and Innovation Network (CURIN), our researchers, staff and students work across various disciplines to extend the boundaries of knowledge. This enables our students to be involved in cutting-edge research, exploring new technologies to improve the country's infrastructure and safety — and contributing to the society through many other discoveries and innovations."
