“The first piece of advice I offer someone who is trying to collect a debt is to stay calm,” explained Christopher Mihoulides. “It’s natural to be upset, but knowing that this can be resolved will provide peace of mind.”

Credit Counsel Inc encourages everyone going through this process to remember that having a good temperament can go a long way with recovering a debt in a timely manner. Knowing that there are companies that will help you can be a breathe of fresh air and help you stay positive as you go through this process.
