"After 3 years of offering STEM educational programs within schools and at our centertec Summer Tech Camps, we realized that interactive education programs still have many shortcomings. So, we've decided to partner with Chicken Waffle to create our own quality STEM and Extended Reality (XR) content." said Bill Tustin, CEO centertec

We believe that it is important to partner with a company focused on quality educational experiences for students”

Finn Staber

We are excited to partner together, and create powerful and unique STEM educational content, exclusively to centertec locations.

“We believe that it is important to partner with a company focused on quality educational experiences for students, and we're proud to be joining forces with centertec to create the future of XR education!”
