RALEIGH, NC, UNITED STATES, January

15, 2019 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Dean Dorton, recognized as a Top Southeast Accounting firm, announced today that it will host a seminar for finance professionals of North Carolina's leading nonprofit organizations.

The seminar, "Audit-Ready Financials for the Nonprofit CFO" will bring together CFOs, Controllers, Accountants, Executive Directors, and anyone who plays a critical financial role within their nonprofit organization for a high-level overview on successfully preparing financial statements.

The event is on Tuesday, January 29th at the Angus Barn, 9401 Glenwood Ave, Raleigh, NC 27617. It will be from 11:30 am- 2:30 pm.

Attendees can expect an educational presentation on how to effectively prepare clean, audit-ready, and error-free financial statements in order to help mitigate auditing risks.

"It is critical that nonprofit financial leaders are aware of the proper way to prepare audit-ready financials, as these statements can influence valuable stakeholder and donor decisions," said Philip Massey, Director of Software Consulting at Dean Dorton.

Dean Dorton specializes in nonprofit financial management and technology tools that automate processes for nonprofits, such as grant and fund management, compliance, and more.

The event will feature industry expert insight on how to calculate balances and transactions accurately in the timeliest manner. Along with an upscale Angus Barn lunch, the presentation will also be followed by a showcase of Sage Intacct's top-notch cloud accounting technology, which helps financial leaders eliminate the need for manual data entry and outdated reporting processes.

"We are excited for the opportunity to help nonprofit organizations better understand the preparation process of risk-free financial statements," said Massey. "Our goal is to help provide the right expertise and solutions for nonprofits so they can focus more on organizational success, mission impact, and stronger stewardship, rather than reports and regulations."
