

Tiffany Troso-Sandoval MD Serves Frontline on the Fight Against Endometrial Cancers

ROCKVILLE CENTRE, NEW YORK, UNITED STATES, January 15, 2019 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Tiffany Troso-Sandoval MD is a cancer-fighting vanguard, helping women fight off breast and gynecological cancer. In addition to her patient care and clinical work, she frequently speaks at conferences and educates the masses, doing her part to make real change in the fight against cancer.

Last year, Dr. Troso-Sandoval was a headline speaker at a partnership event through Memorial Sloan Kettering Cancer Center and Molloy College, focusing on endometrial cancer. Along with notable speakers like Jennifer J. Mueller MD and Richard M. Gewanter MD, Dr. Troso-Sandoval spoke on improving outcomes for endometrial cancer while maintaining quality of life.

Her work was also highlighted in the Long Island Pulse, a New York publication seeking out the best of the best professionals in their respected fields. The magazine shined a spotlight on Tiffany Troso-Sandoval MD and her dedication to helping women in the Long Island area stave off cancer with revolutionary treatments. It spoke on her work in treating ovarian cancer, breast cancer, cervical cancer, and uterine cancer which plague women today.

“Women are susceptible to a range of diseases, and cancers are always at the top of the list of most-dreaded. Our work at the Memorial Sloan Kettering Cancer Center is cutting edge. Our goal is to give the best, most comprehensive and effective cancer care to each patient, while also paving the way for more effective treatments in the future,” says Tiffany Troso-Sandoval MD.

The Harsh Reality of Endometrial Cancer

Endometrial cancer is a disease of the uterus, cancer cells ultimately forming in the uterine lining. This type of cancer can be brought on by alterations in hormone production, though its exact cause is still unknown. Women may experience pelvic pain or notice a slight bloody discharge when afflicted with endometrial cancer, and the consequences can be extremely severe if not recognized promptly.

Life with endometrial cancer is a frightening reality for many women, but Dr. Troso-Sandoval goes the extra mile to get to know her patients on a personal level. She is the type of physician who will provide a comprehensive explanation of how she will treat not only the cancer, but the whole patient.

How Oncologists like Tiffany Troso-Sandoval MD Change the Game

Many physicians and medical specialists overlook the fact that their patients are human and need personal attention and care when facing such a devastating battle. Dr. Troso-Sandoval takes the time to personalize her cancer treatments and also management of the side effects of those treatments.

“My patients all receive individual and personalized approaches to fighting their cancer. Understanding each individual on a personal level is vital in choosing the right form of treatment,” says Tiffany Troso-Sandoval MD.

Endometrial cancer is aggressive, but with vanguard oncologists like Dr. Troso-Sandoval, women in the Long Island area have a fighting chance for a cancer-free life.
