GPR Launches Multicultural International Motion Picture Association
www.mimpa.org

January 2019--Beverly Hills, CA. Gail Gibson of Gibson Public Relations launches the Multicultural International Motion Picture Association to further the work of Jarvee Hutcherson's MMPA under her new banner MIMPA. Gibson, who is no stranger to national media and entertainment, decided to provide a new take on diversity and inclusion by revamping the once well-known Diversity Awards started by her predecessor Hutcherson, with the now new, Annual MIMPA Diversity Awards, that will be produced by MIMPA President, Gibson in late Fall 2020. MIMPA will also continue on with the "Lady in Red Diamond Rose Awards", which Gibson spearheaded and completed after the untimely passing of Founder of MMPA, Jarvee Hutcherson last year. Emmy Award Winning Actor/Entertainer, Obba Babatunde will Host the gala awards dinner with over 350 celebrities, community leaders and guest in attendance. The Gala Awards dinner will be held on February 15, 2019 at The Beverly Hilton Hotel in Beverly Hills, CA.

"Our mission at MIMPA will be to continue to provide a platform for recognition of those Studios, Producers, Writers, Directors and Artists, who make diversity and inclusion a part of their respective creative projects as a mandate, while also raising funds to support up and coming film-makers and students with grants and scholarships for film and television projects that impact diversity within the entertainment industry", stated Gibson. "We will partner and dialog with studio executives to assist them with messaging that reflects the landscape
