

Grand Rapids Mobile Pet Grooming Presents Three Stealth Tools to Ease the Mess of Muddy Dogs & Kids

Develop a game plan for winter months when kids and dogs track mud with wild abandon.

GRAND RAPIDS, MICHIGAN, USA, February 2, 2019 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Muddy dogs and kids are happy dogs and kids, but cleaning a muddy dog is not always easy. Here are some tips to make life easier, and your floors cleaner even when dogs have rolled in the muds. Take these steps to curb the messy mud residue and don't forget to call a mobile pet groomer when it gets to be too much.

Develop a path to your doors that works for you. Make sure the kids and pets understand what they are supposed to do once they get all muddy. Dogs are exceptionally bright, in most cases, and you can teach them the steps you take. Be consistent with these steps so they can learn it easily. And be firm with the kids, too! This might include having a hose and a thick towel at the ready.

Is there a washing machine sink near a door that goes into the garage? You can connect a hose to warm water so when you rinse of the dogs (and the kids!) they won't be so cold. Once you've rinsed of your pets be very aware of the temperatures and make sure they can dry off someplace that is not freezing cold, too. Have some old sleeping bags or blankets available for drying off once the mud is gone!

Invest in a waterproof rug (like a bathroom rug) for the front door area. You can let your dog wipe his or her paws off on the rug and then rinse it off and let it air dry. Easy-peasy!

For extra family fun be sure to get lots of photos. Muddy times are good times. And of course, call Grand Rapids Mobile Pet Grooming to give yourself a break and let them take care of the mud!
