all. We especially look forward to installing our methods for the prevention of child exploitation within the WSA ecosystem and its member states. We are always interested in affecting the lives of those who have been victimized through sex-trafficking and we believe that our effectiveness in the prevention of these types of abuses can be furthered through our collaboration with WSA."

Mr. Saint Clair added: "We work with various people who are considered to be heroes in the world of sports. When we fully understood the work of Mr. Lopez and Freedom's Shield, we clearly identified them as true global heroes. As World Sports Alliance is now finally moving into the areas of sports events and ultimately league play for kids, the safety of the parents, children, coaches and support staff is paramount to us. Our worst nightmare is that any of these WSA participants were to ever come into harm, especially the children! We are very excited to receive the training that Freedom's Shield offers in the area of child safety and to spread these methods throughout our member states. We look forward to collaborating with and supporting Freedom's Shield in all areas of their important work."
