In his turn, Dr Phares renewed his support to the Warsaw Process and reassured Dr Debski of the support of many members of Congress and the European Parliament. Phares stated. "In addition to Governments and lawmakers on both sides of the Atlantic, a large number of civil society groups and NGOs from the US, to Europe and the MENA region, are eager to work with the Warsaw process and to be included."

AMCD Community Leaders

Iranian American and AMCD vice-chair, Hossein Khorram, is truly grateful to the Trump Administration for putting the life and liberty of the Iranian people ahead of our own financial gain. "I hope our European allies will listen to their consciences," he said. "Exiting the Iran nuclear deal would apply more pressure upon the non-elected, self-appointed leaders of the Islamic Republic of Iran and force them to respect their international obligations, starting with the rights of the Iranian people guaranteed under the Universal Declaration of Human Rights."

"We support the Warsaw process wholeheartedly," added AMCD co-chair Tom Harb. "We stand ready to aid the process and look forward to a peaceful Middle East in which the human rights of all peoples are protected."
