

Storage Commander LLC Hosts Education Panel at ISS 2019 World Expo

Industry experts discuss Mastering the Fine Art of Self-Storage Automation

MURRIETA, CA, UNITED STATES, March 29, 2019 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Storage Commander Software, provider of the Storage Commander property management software, has partnered with self-storage industry cooperative Storelocal to co-panel an educational presentation titled "Mastering the Fine Art of Self-Storage Automation" at the 2019 Inside Self Storage (ISS) World Expo. The discussion, taking place on April 2 at the Mirage Hotel & Casino in Las Vegas, will share with registered attendees the latest trends in automation while exploring topics such as lead-to-lease technology, revenue management and enhancing customer service through automation.

Panelists include Kevin Kerr, Marketing Manager for Storage Commander Software, Lance Watkins, CEO and Owner of Storage Outlet, Travis Morrow, President-Self Storage Division at Strat Property Management and Terry Bagley, President of Door Entry & Facility Automation Division at Janus International.

Perfecting the customer experience is crucial for the self-storage industry”

Kevin Kerr, Storage Commander

Robert Chiti, Chairman and CEO of OpenTech Alliance will act as moderator.

“As pioneers of automated technology in the self-storage industry, we are honored to partner with our esteemed peers at Storage Commander on conveying the importance of automation in strengthening customer relations,” Travis Morrow said.

Kevin Kerr of Storage Commander added, "We are very pleased about this year's conference focusing on perfecting the self-storage customer experience, as there is no topic more crucial for the industry. We look forward to sharing our joint expertise."
