

Quality continues to sit central in Girikon's delivery model

DELHI, INDIA, April 2, 2019

/EINPresswire.com/ -- Cost effective quality on time delivery! Have you heard this phrase before? In project management 101 classes around the world we are all presented with a triangle and at each of the points in the triangle we see the words cost, quality and time. In recent times I have also seen scope, expectation etc.

introduced to the triangle with the words Quality now sitting central to cost, time and scope. This makes a lot of sense to me. I am a seasoned program manager with experience in project management methodologies such as PBOOK, Prince2, Agile working for over two decades in the engineering, information technology and education industries. I believe without Quality in the centre the Project Management triangle, contrary to the view that any structure requiring a strong and rigid construction depends on a triangle to achieve that goal, the Project Management Triangle will collapse without Quality!
