

Trauma is more common, but also more beneficial than people realize.

World's foremost authority on the psychology of suffering offers new hope for those suffer from PTSD

TORONTO, ONTARIO, CANADA, April 15, 2019 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Survey by WHO World Mental Health (WMH) (<https://www.ncbi.nlm.nih.gov/pmc/articles/PMC5632781/>) shows that more than 70% of people are exposed to trauma; if left untreated, PTSD may lead to depression, addiction and suicide.

"The bad news is that trauma is much more common than 70%," according to Paul Wong, President of the International Network on Personal Meaning (INPM) and the Meaning-Centered Counselling Institute. "If one includes the cumulative of long-term relational conflicts and the emotional drain of caring for someone with a chronic condition, the percentage will be much higher."

Effective treatment PTSD presents perhaps the most pressing challenge in the field of mental health. In his Meaning Therapy Workshop in Toronto, Paul Wong presents new development in meaning-focused therapy to transform trauma into strength.

“

He who has a reason for living can endure and overcome any trauma."
Paul T. P. Wong

Wong's known as the foremost authority of suffering by virtue of his 5 decades of meaning-focused research and practice. "Research in existential positive psychology leads to exciting new ways of preventing and treating PTSD. Wong advocates the radical acceptance of personal responsibility to face suffering. "Life is suffering, and trauma is often inevitable. Paradoxically, research has shown if we embrace the terrors of living with courage, we will experience less pain and anxiety. This defiant attitude functions like stress inoculation," claimed Wong.

His other innovative interventions include the dialectical approach to achieve a balance between opposites, and the double-vision strategy of keep an eye on the present situation and another eye on the life goal or the big picture. In his recent book on Inspirations for Difficult Times, he outlined many of the basic steps to return to the core values of faith, love and meaning, the positive triad which has powered human beings to survive and flourish since antiquity in spite of adversities.

At the INPM Summer Institute in Toronto in July 20-21, Wong will demonstrate how to restore

INPM 2019 Summer Institute

TRANSFORMING TRAUMA TO RESILIENCE THROUGH MEANING THERAPY

Online Interactive Livestream
12.0 CE Credits

Toronto, July 20-21, Saturday & Sunday

Time: 9:00 a.m. to 4:00 p.m. Eastern Time
Location: Novotel, 3 Park Home Ave, North York, Ontario, Canada

International Network on PERSONAL MEANING
www.meaning.ca

Transforming trauma to resilience

hope and joy by using paradoxical interventions to transform traumatic memories and emotions. Details of the workshop can be found in INPM's website (www.meaning.ca/conferences-and-events/)

To contact Wong for interview, email drpaulwong@gmail.com or visit www.drpaulwong.com

drpaulwong
International Network on Personal Meaning
+1 416-546-5588
email us here
Visit us on social media:
Facebook

This press release can be viewed online at: <http://www.einpresswire.com>

Disclaimer: If you have any questions regarding information in this press release please contact the company listed in the press release. Please do not contact EIN Presswire. We will be unable to assist you with your inquiry. EIN Presswire disclaims any content contained in these releases. © 1995-2019 IPD Group, Inc. All Right Reserved.