Description

Wiseguyreports.Com Adds "Chemicals for Cosmetic and Toiletry -Market Demand, Growth, Opportunities and analysis of Top Key Player Forecast to 2021" To Its Research Database

The Global Chemicals for Cosmetic and Toiletry Market accounted for $22.6 billion in 2015 and is expected to grow at a CAGR of 6.55% from 2015 to 2022, reaching a value of $35.4 billion by the year 2022. Growing reputation of natural products for healthy lifestyle and growing metropolitan lifestyle and working women population are some of the major drivers fueling the market growth. Moreover, the factors such as growing demand for personal care products, rising interest for antiaging products and improving advancement in innovative products are some of the major factors favoring the market growth. However, growing number of disposal incomes in developing countries and stringent government regulations are some of the restraining factors for the market.

Among the applications, the emollients and moisturizers segment accounted for the largest share during the forecast period owing to growing number of personal care products. North America dominated the global chemicals for cosmetic and toiletry market during the forecast period. US cosmetic and toiletry chemicals will rise 4.9 percent yearly due to increasing metropolitan lifestyle for healthier growth. Asia Pacific is the fastest growing segment due to increasing growth rate in emerging countries such as China and India.

Some of the key players in this market include are

Active Organics, Alka Chemical Industries, Alpine Aromatics International Inc., Bio-Botanica, Cosmetic Rheologies Limited, Dow Chemical Co., Elementis Plc, Gyan Flavours Export, Honeywell International, International Flavors And Fragrances Inc., BASF SE, Bayer AG, Solvay SA, Stepan Company and Terry Laboratories Incorporated.
