CHARLOTTE, NC, USA, May 3, 2019 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Charlotte pressure washing company, Washh, has announced a new office location in the Ballantyne area. The company made the decision to move to a new office location due to the continued growth and expansion of services that the company offers.

Nick Ventry, Managing Director, stated, "We are very excited about the new office location. We have been blessed and look forward to continuing to serve our clients and to expanding our service offerings."

As spring and summer approach, businesses and communities should prepare for the increased traffic the warmer months will bring. Charlotte-based Washh, is here to help with a wide range of pressure washing services.

"Pressure washing is an important part of the regular maintenance of any property," says Nick. "It not only keeps the grounds looking good, but also removes potential hazards before they become a problem for your visitors or your property. It also increases curb appeal and helps maintain and enhance property values."

Nick states that pressure washing is also important for business owners. "A good power cleaning company can help maintain professional appearances and impress your customers. We work with many business owners and facilities
