Top Developers

In its long tenure the company has earned itself a long list of prominent achievements and this would add the latest accomplishment in their list. This is not the first time CIS has been reviewed or recognised by Clutch, but the company has been consistently recognised in various top categories on the business review platform. Some of the categories in which CIS has been previously recognised by Clutch are – top web development service providers in the US, top custom software development in the US, top 10 outsourcing partners in India, top 10 mobile app development companies in the world, etc.

As we ask an authority for his take on this achievement, he says “Another notable achievement added to our long array of accomplishments! This surely makes each member of the CIS family happy and proud to be a part of this prestigious organisation. And I would first like to appreciate our team of web, mobile, software, and other developers who have actually made it possible for us as a company to rise with this confident and consistency.

CIS today, isn't just restricted to a single solution, but has grown into a one-stop solution delivering end-to-end IT solutions that include - web development services, mobile application development solutions, website design and theme development, Microsoft application development, enterprise mobility solutions, SAP solutions, open source app development, cloud computing services, Java application development, Oracle-based app development solutions, Big Data integration solutions, digital assets development, CAD/CAM architectural solutions, testing automation services, digital marketing solutions, cloud technology solutions, , ITeS, etc. And this is all made possible by our wide team of highly-skilled IT professionals.”

As he appreciates the development team at CIS, he says, “Being in the business for more than 16 years now, we are a brand and this doesn't just bring us a strong recognition in the market but also brings us a responsibility to uphold our reputation as a credible service provider. Here is where our team of dedicated professionals readily support us by leaving no stone unturned to deliver our clients with the best of solutions that doesn't just meet their requirements but also help them draw the desired returns from the investments.

Going forward, this accomplishment surely motivates us as a team to consistently achieve the number 1 ranking in the top app developers category across various locations and universally. This update from Clutch also tells us about how our clients feel about us as a service provider and how delighted are they with the solutions we have offered them. And the recognition tells us that we are doing a great job, that we need to continue along with focussing on progressive growth. The update was happily shared in all our internal communication channels and has surely lit a spark in the eyes of every member at CIS family. This update also gives us an opportunity to conduct a reward and recognition program through which we could appreciate all those members who have directly or indirectly helped us achieve this recognition.”

That all for now, keep updated with the latest news in the IT business sector here.
