

MilSatCom USA 2019 organisers release 5 Key Reasons to attend this year's conference

In the run up to this year's MilSatCom USA conference, organisers SMi Group have released a list of 5 key reasons why the MilSatCom USA community needs to meet

LONDON, UNITED KINGDOM, May 7, 2019 /EINPresswire.com/ -- The 4th annual MilSatCom USA conference is returning to Arlington, Virginia on 26th - 27th June.

This year's two-day conference will provide attendees with a platform to identify and explore next-generation SATCOM capabilities with US military and senior policy makers, as well as their long-standing partners.

Delegates will also hear international perspectives from Canada, Belgium, and NATO on collaboration between nations, coordinating SATCOM activities across partner forces, and the challenges faced by small countries.

Key Reasons for the MilSatCom Community to meet:

- Understand how the new space COCOM will change force provision in the domain and make way for next generation secure satellite communications
- Learn how the proposed space force will reform the training and equipping of deployable assets and servicemen, as well as contest with increasingly sophisticated adversaries
- Engage with industry experts leading on AEHF and WGS, and examining project development as WGS-10 and AEHF-5 and 6 come into place
- Follow transformative - "go fast" procurement processes lead by the SDA
- Explore future network solutions from providers and innovators like DISA and Kepler Communications

This year's Gold Sponsors Airbus and Lockheed Martin are set to showcase their solutions by exhibiting and speaking at the 4th annual conference. Airbus' Tim Deaver, Director US Space Systems will on day two present on "Pivot to LEO", focusing on leveraging the potential of large commercial LEO constellations, enabling new missions and extend existing systems by increasing capabilities across many satellites and multiple orbit regimes, as well as updating on Airbus OneWeb Satellite manufacturing capability and DARPA's Blackjack program. Airbus will also be hosting an evening networking reception on Wednesday 26th June at the Hilton Arlington

Virginia Hotel.

In addition, a senior representative from Lockheed Martin is also set to present on day one, whilst Airbus, Lockheed Martin and SES Government Solutions will be participating in the industry panel discussion on "Industry Perspectives on SATCOM – Developing the Resilient Architectures of the future".

The two-day event will provide a refined focus on the US communications market, and address how these critical programmes are developing, as well as explore the resiliency of systems, their integration to ground terminals, and wider efforts to optimise bandwidth utilisation via international partnerships.
