

This Outdoor Retailer leads the charge in Sustainability

PARK CITY, UT, US, May 8, 2019 /EINPresswire.com/ -- As stewardship and environmental responsibility become a greater concern for consumers, companies pledge to help the cause, but few companies are as green as GearTrade.

Since 1999, GearTrade.com has never produced a single consumer good. While most outdoor retailers sell new product, which has a significant carbon footprint, GearTrade is solely focused on the re-use of outdoor gear.

As the oldest and largest marketplace for outdoor gear, GearTrade has kept over $27 Million dollars worth of gear, out of our landfills! Re-use is the highest form of recycling and by re-using gear, everyone can contribute significantly to offsetting their own carbon footprint.

It's as simple as deciding to buy used instead of new, or selling your old outdoor gear, instead of throwing it away. As a true marketplace, GearTrade allows individuals to sell their outdoor gear easily from their phone or computer. They offer free listings, guaranteed payment and full payment processing included in their low flat rate commission of 13%.

In an industry that totes sustainability, GearTrade has been living it for almost 20 years.
