Chairman of the Biosimilars Conference, Michel Mikhail, Global Expert of Biosimilars invites biosimilar experts to attend the 10th Annual Biosimilars Conference

LONDON, GREATER LONDON, UNITED KINGDOM, May 13, 2019 /EINPresswire.com/ -- This year's event, taking place in London on 25 and 26 September 2019 will address regulatory issues, alongside case reports of developing, forecasting and launching the next wave of biosimilars to ensure optimal uptake and successful commercialisation of these high-quality medicinal products.

Michel states:

"I am delighted to cordially invite you to our 10th Biosimilars Conference taking place on the 25th and 26th September 2019 at the Copthorne Tara Hotel in London, UK."

"After over a decade of successful experience with Biosimilars in Europe, the biosimilars industry is finally reaching a stage where key stakeholders better understand and accept biosimilars. This is reflected in the requirements for development, regulatory approval & post-marketing surveillance and an increased uptake of biosimilars across the globe.

We are now entering a very exciting time, for over the next few years several originator patents are expiring, and we will see the next few waves of biosimilars enter the market. Will the biosimilar be a successful contender and spark a competitive environment or will the originator dominate? Have we done enough to convince the payer, prescriber and patient to switch?"
