

Logic20/20 Hires Regional Director David Watson to their Silicon Valley Branch

The company announced the expansion of their West Coast leadership team with the hiring of a Regional Director.

SEATTLE, WA, 98134, May 14, 2019 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Logic20/20 has announced that David Watson will be joining the team as Regional Director, based out of their Silicon Valley office. He brings over 27 years of experience in business development to the team and has spent most of his career in the professional services and consulting industry.

David Watson

David excels at growing, managing, and marketing businesses, as well as projects and subject matter experts. He has created a vast network of professional and business leaders with national and global responsibilities. He will be responsible for business development across the west coast and growing the company into new geographical locations. He will concentrate on driving greater market-share through Logic20/20's solutions-based consulting services and continue to deliver innovative business results to a range of clients across industry and location.

He will also focus on maintaining company culture and values in their new locations, focusing on creating collaborative environments that empower employees. "There is an undeniable spirit and team culture that drives Logic20/20's success," says David. "Their refreshing style of business is a clear differentiator in the market, and what excites me most about this new opportunity."

Logic20/20 has experienced tremendous growth as a company, being named one of Consulting Magazine's Fastest Growing Firms in the U.S. for 2018. Their continued expansion into new locations ensures all clients have a personalized and focused customer experience.

"We are thrilled to have David join the team and support our growing business in California," says Travis Jones, SVP of North America at Logic20/20. "He brings amazing insight and a relentless focus on the customer that will help us build relationships and reach new customers along the west coast."

Prior to joining Logic20/20, David worked for firms including British Telecom Consulting, Capgemini, CSC, and most recently TEKsystems. Read more about David here.
