Working in Collections

The collection department is a mainstay of Montana Capital Car Title Loans. If you are a real people person, you have at least one year experience in collections and you enjoy speaking on the phone, this could be just the place for you. They help customers who might be having a problem paying for their loans by finding creative solutions. They understand the options available and carefully explain what might be the best decision for them. Collection agents take payments by phone and help with due date changes. It is so rewarding to end the day feeling like you were able to help someone!

Becoming a Loan Officer

Being a loan officer at Montana Capital Car Title Loans means that you are in charge of helping our customers find the best loan program for their situations. To apply, you should have at least two years experience in sales experience by phone. It's a true knack, to know how to speak to people in such a way that they trust you. Once you build their confidence, you can explain loan requirements, the options available and how car title loans can help them through a financial difficulty. You'll go on to prepare loan applications to pass on to the loan underwriter.

Applying to Be a Loan Underwriter

As a loan underwriter, you would be kept busy with handling new applications from potential customers. Our title loans are approved according to a specific set of criteria. The customers need to own a private car of adequate value, be able to prove that they can repay the loan and meet all of our credit specifications. A loan underwriter is responsible for analyzing that information, the supporting documents, signatures and DMV verification in order to evaluate risk. One year experience in underwriting title loans is required.

Working as a Loan Originator

Once all the departments have done their jobs, the application comes down to the loan originator for approval and processing. It requires professional communication skills, an understanding of Outlook programs and working on the internet, flexibility and ability to work under pressure. Candidates should have at least one year experience in a call center.
