FORT WORTH, TX, UNITED STATES, May 22, 2019 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Dunaway announced today that Nova Albers has been named Human Resources Executive and will lead that department as Dunaway continues to build out its infrastructure for growth in the State of Texas.

Albers, who was born and raised in nearby Mesquite and graduated from the University of Texas at Arlington, said she did not have to think long about her decision to join Dunaway, an opportunity that came about because of the retirement of a long-time company employee.

"I was attracted to Dunaway by its culture, and the way it values its employees," said Albers. "When I visited the company for my first interview, I could feel it. It was a very genuine feeling from those I met with. I wanted to be a part of that."

The feeling was mutual.

"Nova is a great fit for our company," said Tom Galbreath, CEO of Dunaway. "Not only does she embody the culture we are striving to maintain at Dunaway, but she has the requisite experience that it will take to grow the company, while preserving that culture."

Albers joins Dunaway after spending the better part of five years at Exeter Finance, where most recently she was a senior vice president. She also has work experience at GM Financial and Blue Cross Blue Shield Minnesota.

In Dunaway, she found an employer that matches her philosophy.

"We want team members who are not only happy in the workplace, but also in the field when they are interacting with a client, or a potential client in a business development role," Albers said. "If an employee leaves us, our goal is to have them speak highly about their experience at Dunaway. These kinds of goals are readily achievable, especially with the culture that is already in place."
