Diabetic foot complications are contributing to both mortality and morbidity among the diabetic population leading to a substantial physical, psychological and financial burden for patients. Diabetes prevalence has increased from 8.5% in 2014 to 8.8% in 2017 leading to higher demand for podiatry services for diabetic foot problems. It is estimated that globally, 25% of total health care expenditure among the diabetic population is related to foot complications thus driving the market growth. View complete report with Table of Content @ <https://www.thebusinessresearchcompany.com/report/podiatry-services-market> .

The cost of various healthcare services, podiatry being one of them, is continuing to increase and will restrain the growth of the podiatry services market. This is due to the high prices associated with the diagnosis and treatment of diseases related to foot, ankle or lower extremities. In emerging countries, high prices can lead to fewer people approaching a podiatrist for treatment.

Major trends influencing the podiatry services market include:

Fighting Acute And Chronic Pain With Innovative Technology - Foot ailments are commonly accompanied with either acute or chronic pain and various non-invasive methods are being launched for its treatment. For instance, podiatrists are using Extracorporeal Pulse Activation Technology (EPAT), to treat acute or chronic pain in the muscle and tendon, which uses pressure waves to stimulate blood circulation to the lower limb and enhances the metabolism, helping the regeneration of tissues in the affected area. EPAT is also considered as an alternative to surgery and the whole process takes only 5-10 minutes.

General podiatry had the highest growth rate of nearly 1.85% during the historic period. The fastest growth in the historic period can be attributed to the increasing prevalence of diabetes and other comorbid conditions along with increasing awareness about podiatry and the importance of foot care.

Major Companies covered in this report are National Health Service (NHS), Kaiser Permanente, UPMC and Mayo Clinic.
