Therapy) uses the power generated from acoustic sound waves and radial shockwaves to stimulate blood vessel growth called neovascularization. This process forms new blood vessels, increasing much-needed blood flow to the region. While this treatment has been used successfully in a number of orthopedic areas, which include fractures, joint inflammation, and plantar fasciitis, researchers and several studies have shown that low-intensity ESWT is helping men suffering from erectile dysfunction. There are more studies being presented on a daily basis and the success rates are significant. Sexual wellness is a growing concern among today's adults, there are many causes including lifestyle, environment, genetics, and illness. ESWT provides a non-drug oriented solution.

Diana Hashaw, MSN, FNP-C of Physician Wellness stated, “Blood Flow to the penis is crucial for firmness in erections. Men with poor blood flow have a difficult time attaining and maintaining erections. The responses from patients across the U.S. have been nothing short of amazing. Coupled with our male enhancement device, the protocol has been shown to provide significant improvement for male sexual wellness.” By increasing vascularity to the penis and thereby blood flow, erections prove to be firmer and longer-lasting thereby improving intimacy for everyone. Tami Falk, Case Manager for the clinic continued, "Research shows that this treatment has amazing result for both Erectile Dysfunction and painful joints, the technology is sound, the treatments are short and the results have been remarkable. I am thrilled with this "non-drug" solution."
