Over the past few years, an array of economic, demographic, technological as well as environmental factors have been igniting a revolution in the healthcare industry. Increasing investments in research and development projects associated with dermal fillers by key players including Allergan, Galderma, Merz Aesthetics, Teoxane Laboratories, Suneva Medical, Advanced Aesthetics, etc., has been pushing the market in the right direction. And as a result of continuous technological advancements, a wide variety of soft tissue fillers are available in the market. Furthermore, rising disposable income and increasing popularity of non-invasive cosmetic treatments have also been instrumental in driving the global demand for dermal fillers. In this research report, the market is segmented on the basis of product type, material as well as application area. On the basis of product type, the segment of biodegradable fillers has been dominating the global market, and is also anticipated to witness growth at a noteworthy rate.

Amongst the regions, North America accounted for the largest regional share in the global dermal fillers market in 2018. However, in the forecast period, the Asia Pacific region is anticipated to advance at the highest pace. Some of the key factors driving the robust growth rate of Asia Pacific region include presence of vast consumer base, significant improvements in medical infrastructure and rapid economic development.
