With many state and utility incentives for electric vehicles and EV charging stations, the West Coast has become the most influential region for clean transportation options. Government leaders want to learn how to support business and tourism. Utility leaders want to learn about the way that smart charging can help them manage the energy grid more efficiently. That is why SemaConnect representatives will be demonstrating the Series 6 commercial charging station and answering questions about the smart network capabilities. The SemaConnect booth #22 will be open from 8am to 5pm on both days of the expo.
