Matt Movin' has been performing on and off for over ten years, As some of you may know, life consistently runs its' course in the streets. This extensively rugged and insanely diverse path led to many legal and career halting issues. When asked how he would explain the time and sacrifices he had put into his longstanding career choice he had this to say "I look at most things in my life as lessons to be honest with y'all, but when you come up in certain situations, you learn to be a hustler and you learn how to stay down for the ones that kept it real with you. All I ever did was play the hand I was dealt, music was always just that major card I had tucked away, that one card I had always knew when I played right, would make everyone proud."
