

Vikas Sharan, CEO Regalix, shares his vision on the Indian startup ecosystem at Horasis forum in Spain

SEGOVIA, SPAIN, July 2, 2019

/EINPresswire.com/ -- Regalix CEO and serial entrepreneur, Vikas Sharan, spoke about India as a startup destination at Horasis India Meeting, a global think tank and forum that focuses on Indian businesses. The 2019 edition of the annual event – held on June 23-24, 2019, in Segovia, Spain – explored global strategies employed by Indian companies.

Horasis is an independent, international organization founded in 2005 by Frank-Jürgen Richter, former Director of the World Economic Forum, and holds invitation-only meetings of global business leaders. Headquartered in Zurich, Switzerland, Horasis is chaired by multi-national corporations, political/government employees and non-profit organizations.

Speaking on the panel "Making India the next startup nation" at the forum, Mr. Sharan discussed the growth of startups in India and how the country's maturing ecosystem has encouraged more founders to launch startups.

Vikas Sharan

“India is the third-largest tech startup ecosystem in the world and is home to one of the largest tech talent bases. What makes the scenario even better is the fact that the workforce is young and the country's ecosystem is maturing very quickly too. Things are definitely looking up in the startup space, with quite a few companies growing at exponential rates. There's absolutely no reason why India can't go on to eventually become the biggest startup destination in the world,” Mr. Sharan said.
