

1100 Connecticut Avenue Installs SemaConnect Charging Stations

New Smart EV Charging Stations in Downtown Washington, D.C. Support CBRE's Tenants and Visitors

WASHINGTON, USA, July 10, 2019 / EINPresswire.com/ -- 1100 Connecticut Avenue in Downtown Washington D.C. has installed new Series 6 electric vehicle charging stations from SemaConnect. Employees and visitors to the building's law offices, Embassy of the Democratic Republic of the Congo, and the historic Rizik's boutique can charge their electric vehicles at the two wall-mounted charging stations in the parking garage.

"I've been watching the growth of electric vehicles at CBRE properties, so when I became the property manager at 1100 Connecticut Avenue, I knew I wanted to look into charging amenities for tenants," said Scott Bramson, real estate manager at CBRE. He continued, "I knew I wanted a visually appealing station that would provide a great charging experience. We just finished installing our SemaConnect stations, and we've already had requests from EV drivers at our property!"

"Washington D.C. is focusing on becoming a green city with sustainable transportation and major reductions in greenhouse gas emissions by 2030," said Joseph Inglisa, sales manager at SemaConnect. "As more residents in the District switch to electric vehicles, they're looking for workplaces where they can charge their cars. The new stations at 1100 Connecticut Ave will help support employees with electric cars, as well as promote the future-forward, sustainable values of all CBRE's tenants."

The two SemaConnect Series 6 charging stations at 1100 Connecticut Avenue NW feature a wall mount, cable management system, and smart network. The ENERGY STAR certified product also offers sleek design, interactive LED lights, and pricing controls through the SemaConnect Network. The stations can be found on Garage Level B using the PlugShare or SemaConnect apps, and cost $1.50 per hour to charge, in addition to the hourly garage parking fee.
