On the self-produced program, Carse shares the experiences of his music career, which has taken him from the top of the charts, to living out of his car, to the recording of his new album "My Shining Hour". Told through music and narrative, Carse takes viewers all over the globe, from Canada to the U.S., to Africa, and to Israel sharing his journey of music, restoration, and discovering his true calling.

Most recently, Carse was awarded the Best Music Video Award at the International Christian Film Festival (ICFF) in May for his stunning rendition of Amazing Grace. This is his third win with this music video, having won the same honor at the Canadian International Faith & Family Film Festival (CIFF) awards in September 2018, and the Gold Remi award in April 2019. Carse's music video, Hallelujah, also garnered a Silver Remi award in April at the 52nd WorldFest-Houston International Film Festival. Both videos are featured in the show.

Always a champion of worthy causes, Carse co-wrote and performed the anthem "Reach Out," the official song for The American Red Cross. He also wrote and performed the title track for the album "Holiday Heroes" for The Special Olympics in Canada. The "Holiday Heroes" album generated over $2 million in net profit for The Special Olympics. Carse has launched his Y i Count anti-bullying campaign to provide a platform for this generation, helping them to understand their true value and potential and the power of words, and to counteract the aftermath of bullying. The special showcases the Y i Count theme song, "Awesome." See Steph's recent performance of "Awesome" at the Bell Center in Montreal:

Known for his impeccable 4-octave vocal range, his story was featured in the PBS Documentary "A Portrait of Steph Carse."
