Meditation App Meditation.Live Offers Free Trial to New Users, Says CEO Dipanshu Sharma

MIAMI, FL, USA, July 12, 2019 /EINPresswire.com/ -- This week, meditation.live celebrates its one year anniversary and the successes it has seen in the last year as it brings meditation and mindfulness practices into corporate spaces.

Meditation.live is a wellness platform with a mission of inspiring 5 billion people to find their true purpose by featuring meditation and mindful movement classes, according to founder Dipanshu Sharma. The classes offered through meditation.live encourage participants to look inward, reduce mental clutter, improve happiness and find their true purpose, Dipanshu Sharma said. The platform also allows students to ask questions of teachers live, increasing opportunities for learning and making meditation.live appropriate even for beginners.

To celebrate this one year anniversary, meditation.live is unlocking all classes and meditations in the app for free for four days, from July 4 to July 7, 2019. People are encouraged to try out meditation.live during this trial period and test out the platform and its interactive classes. The meditation.live app is available on Apple, Google and Samsung stores, Dipanshu Sharma said.

"The platform has seen many phases over the past year, all because we've listened and adapted to what users and companies need most from us," said Dipanshu Sharma. "In a very short period of time, we have reached the number one app for health and fitness in India, have been featured by Samsung in the USA and added several thousand employees via our enterprise health program."

Dipanshu Sharma said he is proud of the app's success over the last year, but that he could not have done it alone. "We built an amazing team that is literally global, making meditation.live a 24/7 company, but the time differences haven't affected our communications," he said.

Dipanshu Sharma said he is also thankful for the doctors, authors, monks and mindfulness and yoga teachers that make meditation.live the incredible resource that it is. These experts in health, wellness and meditation ensure the meditation.live experience is effective and hugely beneficial to users, Dipanshu Sharma explained.

Hearing from customers who use meditation.live and have experienced the benefits of mindfulness and having a live class available at any time has been rewarding, Dipanshu Sharma said. He is excited to continue to grow the app in the next year and expand the practice of mindfulness and meditation in people's everyday lives.

Meditation.live is backed by top investors and entrepreneurs, including Steve Murry of Revolution Growth, Dennis Phelps of IVP, Eric Yuan, founder and CEO of Zoom.us and many more. The company has raised more than $2.5 million from investors.
