The online marketplace is crowded, and it takes something special to stand out from the crowd. We have a plan, budget and the right people to do just that.”
AmmoDeal Management

Management Team, AmmoDeal.com.

The company plans to add several other domains to their business model to cater to the “right” type of customers and taking great care of them. Every customer that registers for a free “Club Account” will earn points ranging from 5-10% to be used for ammunition purchases.

The company will not be selling firearms of any kind at this time.

“We had an opportunity to purchase AmmoDeal.com at the right time, as my partners and I were looking for diversification in the marketplace. We have brought on a development team, a social media marketing team, sales, and retained an industry liaison to find exactly the right brands to work with. We don't want to play the online price war game, nor do we want to become beholden to online industry behemoths. The online marketplace is crowded, and it takes something special to stand out from the crowd. We have a plan, budget and the right people to do just that.”
