

EEACS in Allentown Open for Summer Tours

Students interested in attending Executive Education Academy Charter School are encouraged to schedule a tour.

ALLENTOWN, PENNSYLVANIA, UNITED STATES, July 25, 2019 /EINPresswire.com/ --

As a new school year nears, Executive Education Academy Charter School in Allentown is encouraging interested students to schedule a tour. EEACS is open to students in grades K-12 from 11 school districts across the area, including Bethlehem, Whitehall, and Northampton. Grades are capped at 104 students.

Executive Education Charter School in Allentown is offering tours.

The Allentown charter school has been praised for its unique business education curriculum, its extracurriculars and athletics, and its highly skilled teaching staff. Students in every grade learn academic standards such as math, science, history, reading, and writing, as well as special instruction in the arts, computers, and languages.

We strive to give students a unique, engaging, and challenging learning experience that they may not otherwise have.”

Robert Lysek, CEO & Founder

For high schoolers, hands-on internships, externships, and career training opportunities are available. Professional and career mentors are also on hand.

“We strive to give students a unique, engaging, and challenging learning experience that they may not otherwise have,” says Robert Lysek, founder and CEO of the Lehigh Valley charter school.

On the tour, prospective students and their families can meet faculty and staff, visit classrooms, and see the school’s state-of-the-art facilities.
